ERRORS 4 0

2 issues with duplicate title tags 2 0

About this issue: Our crawler reports pages that have duplicate title tags only if they are exact matches. Duplicate <title> tags make it difficult for search engines to determine which of a website's pages is relevant for a specific search query, and which one should be prioritized in search results. Pages with duplicate titles have a lower chance of ranking well and are at risk of being banned.
Moreover, identical <title> tags confuse users as to which webpage they should follow. How to fix: Provide a unique and concise title for each of your pages that contains your most important keywords. For information on how to create effective titles, please see this Google article: https://support.google.com/webmasters/answer/35624.

2 pages have duplicate content issues 2 0

About this issue: Webpages are considered duplicates if their content is 85% identical. Having duplicate content may significantly affect your SEO performance. First of all, Google will typically show only one duplicate page, filtering other instances out of its index and search results, and this page may not be the one you want to rank.
In some cases, search engines may consider duplicate pages as an attempt to manipulate search engine rankings and, as a result, your website may be downgraded or even banned from search results. Moreover, duplicate pages may dilute your link profile. How to fix.
Here are a few ways to fix duplicate content issues: 1. Add a rel="canonical" link to one of your duplicate pages to inform search engines which page to show in search results. 2. Use a 301 redirect from a duplicate page to the original one. 3. Use a rel="next" and a rel="prev" link attribute to fix pagination duplicates.
4. Instruct GoogleBot to handle URL parameters differently using Google Search Console. 5. Provide some unique content on the webpage. For more information, please read these articles: https://support.google.com/webmasters/answer/66359?hl=en and https://support.google.com/webmasters/answer/139066?hl=en.

WARNINGS 158 0

136 issues with unminified JavaScript and CSS files 136 0

About this issue: Minification is the process of removing unnecessary lines, white space and comments from the source code. Minifying JavaScript and CSS files makes their size smaller, thereby decreasing your page load time, providing a better user experience and improving your search engine rankings. For more information, please see this Google article https://developers.google.com/web/fundamentals/performance/optimizing-content-efficiency.
How to fix: Minify your JavaScript and CSS files. If your webpage uses CSS and JS files that are hosted on an external site, contact the website owner and ask them to minify their files. If this issue doesn't affect your page load time, simply ignore it.

9 pages have low text-HTML ratio 9 0

About this issue: Your text to HTML ratio indicates the amount of actual text you have on your webpage compared to the amount of code. This issue is triggered when your text to HTML is 10% or less. Search engines have begun focusing on pages that contain more content.
That's why a higher text to HTML ratio means your page has a better chance of getting a good position in search results. Less code increases your page's load speed and also helps your rankings. It also helps search engine robots crawl your website faster.
How to fix: Split your webpage's text content and code into separate files and compare their size. If the size of your code file exceeds the size of the text file, review your page's HTML code and consider optimizing its structure and removing embedded scripts and styles.

7 pages have too much text within the title tags 7 0

About this issue: Most search engines truncate titles containing more than 70 characters. Incomplete and shortened titles look unappealing to users and won't entice them to click on your page. For more information, please see this Google article: https://support.google.com/webmasters/answer/35624.
How to fix: Try to rewrite your page titles to be 70 characters or less.

3 pages don't have meta descriptions 3 0

About this issue: Though meta descriptions don't have a direct influence on rankings, they are used by search engines to display your page's description in search results. A good description helps users know what your page is about and encourages them to click on it. If your page's meta description tag is missing, search engines will usually display its first sentence, which may be irrelevant and unappealing to users.
For more information, please see these article: Create good titles and snippets in Search Results: https://support.google.com/webmasters/answer/35624. How to fix: In order to gain a higher click-through rate, you should ensure that all of your webpages have meta descriptions that contain relevant keywords.

3 pages have a low word count 3 0

About this issue: This issue is triggered if the number of words on your webpage is less than 200. The amount of text placed on your webpage is a quality signal to search engines. Search engines prefer to provide as much information to users as possible, so pages with longer content tend to be placed higher in search results, as opposed to those with lower word counts.
For more information, please view this video: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=w3-obcXkyA4. How to fix: Improve your on-page content and be sure to include more than 200 meaningful words.

NOTICES

30 0

17 resources are formatted as page link 17 0

About this issue: We detected that some links to resources are formatted with  HTML element. An  tag with a href attribute is used to link to other webpages and must only contain a page URL. Search engines will crawl your site from page to page by following these HTML page links.
When following a page link that contains a resource, for example, an image, the returned page will not contain anything except an image. This may confuse search engines and will indicate that your site has poor architecture. How to fix: Review your links.
Replace  links with tags necessary for specific resources. For example, if you'd like to add an image, use an <img> tag with an alt attribute describing the contents of your image.

9 outgoing external links contain nofollow attributes 9 0

About this issue: A nofollow attribute is an element in an  tag that tells crawlers not to follow the link. "Nofollow" links don't pass any link juice or anchor texts to referred webpages. The unintentional use of nofollow attributes may have a negative impact on the crawling process and your rankings.
How to fix: Make sure you haven't used nofollow attributes by mistake. Remove them from  tags, if needed.

4 issues with broken external JavaScript and CSS files 4 0

About this issue: If your website uses JavaScript or CSS files that are hosted on an external site, you should be sure that they work properly. Any script that has stopped running on your website may jeopardize your rankings, since search engines will not be able to properly render and index your webpages. Moreover, broken JavaScript and CSS files may cause website errors, and this will certainly spoil your user experience.
How to fix: Contact the website owner and ask them to fix a broken file.

Low text to HTML ratio

About this issue: Your text to HTML ratio indicates the amount of actual text you have on your webpage compared to the amount of code. This issue is triggered when your text to HTML is 10% or less. Search engines have begun focusing on pages that contain more content. That's why a higher text to HTML ratio means your page has a better chance of getting a good position in search results. Less code increases your page's load speed and also helps your rankings. It also helps search engine robots crawl your website faster. How to fix: Split your webpage's text content and code into separate files and compare their size. If the size of your code file exceeds the size of the text file, review your page's HTML code and consider optimizing its structure and removing embedded scripts and styles.

Long title element

About this issue: Most search engines truncate titles containing more than 70 characters. Incomplete and shortened titles look unappealing to users and won't entice them to click on your page. For more information, please see this Google article: https://support.google.com/webmasters/answer/35624. How to fix: Try to rewrite your page titles to be 70 characters or less.

Low word count

About this issue: This issue is triggered if the number of words on your webpage is less than 200. The amount of text placed on your webpage is a quality signal to search engines. Search engines prefer to provide as much information to users as possible, so pages with longer content tend to be placed higher in search results, as opposed to those with lower word counts. For more information, please view this video: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=w3-obcXkyA4. How to fix: Improve your on-page content and be sure to include more than 200 meaningful words.

Missing meta description

About this issue: Though meta descriptions don't have a direct influence on rankings, they are used by search engines to display your page's description in search results. A good description helps users know what your page is about and encourages them to click on it. If your page's meta description tag is missing, search engines will usually display its first sentence, which may be irrelevant and unappealing to users. For more information, please see these article: Create good titles and snippets in Search Results: https://support.google.com/webmasters/answer/35624. How to fix: In order to gain a higher click-through rate, you should ensure that all of your webpages have meta descriptions that contain relevant keywords.

Resources formatted as page links

About this issue: We detected that some links to resources are formatted with  HTML element. An  tag with a href attribute is used to link to other webpages and must only contain a page URL. Search engines will crawl your site from page to page by following these HTML page links. When following a page link that contains a resource, for example, an image, the returned page will not contain anything except an image. This may confuse search engines and will indicate that your site has poor architecture. How to fix: Review your links. Replace  links with tags necessary for specific resources. For example, if you'd like to add an image, use an <img> tag with an alt attribute describing the contents of your image.

Nofollow attributes in outgoing external links

About this issue: A nofollow attribute is an element in an  tag that tells crawlers not to follow the link. "Nofollow" links don't pass any link juice or anchor texts to referred webpages. The unintentional use of nofollow attributes may have a negative impact on the crawling process and your rankings. How to fix: Make sure you haven't used nofollow attributes by mistake. Remove them from  tags, if needed.

Broken external JavaScript and CSS files

About this issue: If your website uses JavaScript or CSS files that are hosted on an external site, you should be sure that they work properly. Any script that has stopped running on your website may jeopardize your rankings, since search engines will not be able to properly render and index your webpages. Moreover, broken JavaScript and CSS files may cause website errors, and this will certainly spoil your user experience. How to fix: Contact the website owner and ask them to fix a broken file.
